

Bridging the World: Benjamin Baker 13 June - 24 July 2009

'The Forth Bridge: Benjamin Baker and the Birth of Structural Expressionism'

Engineering Debate: Friday 26 June 2009

Anthony Hunt - Anthony Hunt SKM Engineers

Anthony Hunt's career spans six decades of British architecture. From when he first began to practice as a structural engineer in the 1950s until he retired in 2002, he worked with nearly all the acclaimed British architects of the time. He is perhaps best known for devising clever solutions for the system-built prefabricated buildings popular in the 60s and 70s. His genius lay in how he re-imagined the possibilities of industrial design

Mark Whitby – Ramboll Whitbybird Engineers

Mark Whitby, former President of the Institution of Civil Engineers (its youngest in 50 years) and Design Director of the engineering firm Whitby Bird (now Ramboll Whitbybird), whose work includes the Millennium Bridge in York. He also built the tiny Chelsea Bridge Wharf Link in London, which is a more human-scale structure favouring pedestrians and cyclists over motorised transport. Mark is also a supporter of Dynamic Demand technology, making maximum use of existing power supplies. Engaging engineer who has worked on many prestigious projects.

George Ferguson - Acanthus Ferguson Mann Architects

Director of Acanthus Ferguson Mann Architects & former President of the RIBA, owner of the Tobacco Factory in Bristol; George Ferguson has a wide variety of experience in architectural, masterplanning and regeneration projects. This includes many award winning schemes such as the 'AT Bristol' Millennium project with its new urban spaces, Royal William Yard in Plymouth and his mould breaking Tobacco Factory mixed use project, including the renowned Tobacco Factory Theatre and other creative activities that have helped kick start the regeneration of South Bristol. He lives at the top of the building.
